

Photo Blog Concept Note

The Digital Photography blog was created as a way to share photos taken during a digital photography course in January – March 2004.

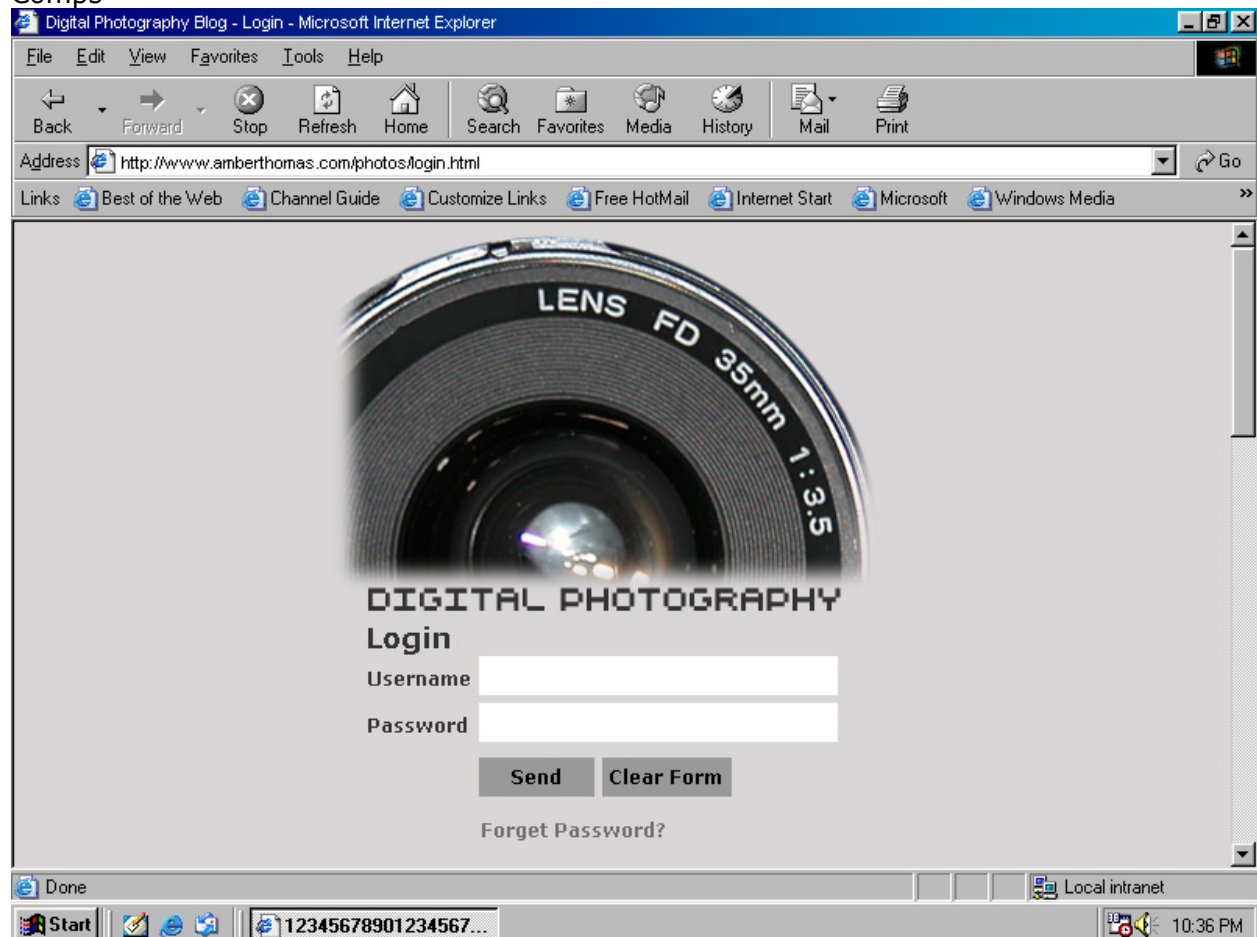

It was two sections, a visitors section and an admin section:

- The visitor's section includes the home page, the second page for additional blog entries, a contact page to email the author, an about page, and a links page.
- The admin section includes pages in which the administrator can edit his/her login information; add, edit, or delete text/photo entries; and preview the Home Page.

A monochromatic gray color scheme was used to enhance the colors. The logo image and text were used to emphasize the theme of digital photography.

The blog communicates and pulls data from a MySQL database via PHP; it then parses and formats the data to create the entries.
